Highlights

- The Ohio Department of Job and Family Services (ODJFS) will experience minimal costs to promulgate rules to enforce the bill.

Detailed Analysis

The bill requires child care providers licensed by ODJFS to provide notice to the parents of enrolled children within 30 days of being found by ODJFS to pose a serious risk to the health or safety of a child receiving care. The notice may be furnished in writing or electronically. If any political subdivisions operate a child care center licensed by ODJFS, it may experience a minimal cost if required to provide the notice.

In FY 2018, ODJFS found 166 cases of serious risk noncompliances (SRNCs) in child care centers and 155 SRNC cases in Type A and B homes,¹ which are rule violations that may:

- Lead to the greatest risk of harm;
- Immediately endanger the health and safety of children while in care; or
- Potentially cause death.

The top three SRNC violations in FY 2018 for child care centers included: lacking supervision (75), not protecting children, resulting in serious incident/injury (18), and using a prohibited guidance or management technique that results in an abuse/neglect finding from a public children services agency (15). homes included failing to complete or update child abuse and neglect check for the provider (65), having alcohol within reach of children (19), and failing to complete or update child abuse and neglect check for employees (17).

The bill requires the ODJFS Director to adopt rules in order to enforce this section. It is not clear if all SRNCs will be grounds to require a provider to send the notice. ODJFS will experience a minimal increase in administrative costs to promulgate rules.
